

ELIZABETH: You know, I'm beginning to get an idea about what's going to happen on Monday with the ceremony. And we're going to have 400 people at the reception. I'm like, who's coming to this? All I can think of is, why are we having this many people? And I'm beginning to sense the enormity.

On the one hand, yes, it's symbolic and that sort of thing, but I'm going to be casting a vote for the President of the United States and I am honored to do that. I'm honored to cast a vote for John Kerry. And that'll go down in history and who could not be honored by that idea?

My name is Elizabeth Maroni. I am chief of staff to state Senator Pam Reiser and we are in her office in the state house in Boston, Massachusetts.
